

EVGA TORQ X10 Mouse – iF DESIGN AWARD 2015 WINNER

- Thursday, February 12, 2015 – EVGA is pleased to announce that the EVGA TORQ X10 gaming mouse has received an iF DESIGN AWARD for 2015. The number of competitors was huge: the international jury assessed almost 5,000 entries from 53 countries in order to determine the winners of this year's prestigious awards.

For more than 60 years, the iF DESIGN AWARD has been recognised all over the world as a label of design excellence. The iF logo is an internationally established symbol identifying outstanding achievements in design. Each year, iF invites a number of internationally renowned personalities from the areas of design, business, and education to participate in a three-day jury session. Behind closed doors, each entry – ranging from cars and computers, to watches, textiles and more – is thoroughly investigated, analysed, discussed, and assessed on the basis of clear criteria.

About the EVGA TORQ X10

The EVGA TORQ X10 gaming mouse is built with the highest quality materials including a real Carbon Fibre surface, and designed from the ground up to satisfy the needs of the hardcore gamer with a high quality laser sensor that provides up to 8200 DPI, an adjustable weight system, nine programmable buttons, and a unique sizing system that allows you to adjust the height of the body.

We didn't stop there though. The EVGA TORQ X10 features the highest quality Omron switches with a lifespan of over 20 million clicks. We also included a full metal base that provides solid construction, the latest Avago 9800 laser sensor providing up to 8200DPI with 1000Hz polling rate, a 6FT silver coated USB cable, and much more.
